Emanuel Swedenborg--Exploring a "World Memory": Context, Content, Contribution (Bidrag till Kungl. Vetenskapsakademiens historia = Contributions to the ... of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences,)

In 2010, a scholarly conference on Emanuel Swedenborg's ideas and influence was held at the Center for the History of Science at the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences in Stockholm. The conference was a celebration a recently completed digital catalog of the academy's Swedenborg archive, which in 2006 was designated as part of UNESCO's World Memory program. This was the first time that an academic conference on Swedenborg was hosted by a non-Swedenborgian institution.

The conference attracted presenters from all over the world, including some top scholars. Papers were divided into three categories. "Content" describes Swedenborg's thought, from his use of spheres in his scientific writings to his views on sexuality and marriage to analyses of his theological writings. "Context" explores his times, putting Swedenborg in the context of eighteenth-century philosophy and looking at the organization of the earliest Swedenborgian church. "Contribution" looks at Swedenborg's influence on philosophy and the arts, from Ralph Waldo Emerson and Czeslaw Milocz to Elizabeth Barrett Browning and William James.

These papers present a rare insight into Swedenborg. Although only a limited number of attendees were invited to the conference, now the research is available to all.
